

About us

Adam Nelson is a law firm with an international outlook located at the centre of the U.K.'s legal and financial hub in London city. Our lawyers and advisers are recognised leaders in their practice areas - their knowledge and expertise helps us to provide a unique, client centred approach to law. Whether you are an overseas property investor, an international business starting up in the U.K., an established business or an individual facing a legal dispute, you can trust our partners in order to receive sound, efficient and cutting-edge legal advice.

In additional, if you are involved in a dispute in Italy, we have a readily assembled team on the ground prepared to act promptly and decisively. To find out more about each of our founding partners, follow the individual profile links below LINK BELOW.

Our team is composed by multilingual solicitors, avvocati accreditati in Italy and authorised by the SRA to practice in UK as REL (registered European Union), chartered accountants qualified both in Italy and UK and a broad range of trusted business consultants and external freelancers that can provide legal expertise in different practices.

Our team enables the firm to have an international outlook and an enviable capacity to represent clients internationally. And the broad range of trusted external freelancers that can provide legal expertise in different practices. With our international outlook, specialist legal skills and industry expertise, we can help you avoid this by providing accurate and prompt advice at every stage

Our goal is to provide you with high-quality legal advice that will enable you to make an informed decision. We will provide you with a balanced assessment of your legal position, guide you safely through new challenges, and help you navigate complex regulatory and compliance hurdles.
